DIRECTIONS

CAMPFIRES:

Hold the firestarter so that the tip is pressing on the ground near dry grass, leaves, moss, cloth, dryer lint, paper, etc. Place blade on the flint at an 85-degree angle(perpendicular to the flint) and scrape in a downward motion. If you are lighting damp tinder, scrape some magnesium shavings into a pile about the size of a quarter. Next ignite the magnesium with the flint. Place tinder on the magnesium to build the Fire.

GAS GRILLS:

Turn on the gas, stand about two Feet away, and then shoot the sparks into the grill. The sparks will ignite the propane. Now it's time for the hamburgers and steaks!

CHARCOAL GRILLS:

For pre-soaked charcoal, place your firestarter about two Feet from the coals and scrape the flint towards the coals. If you are using lighter fluid, place coals on newspaper, apply lighter fluid and shoot the sparks onto coals. Ahhhhh, FIRE!

FIREPLACE: WOOD/GAS:

Scrape the magnesium into a pile on some newspaper or wrapping of a Duralog and ignite it with the flint. For gas: stand back about two Feet and shoot the sparks into the Fireplace igniting the propane.

TO PRODUCE MAXIMUM AMOUNT OF SPARKS:

1. Place your fingers half way up the blade.
2. Place your striker at an 85-degree angle in relation to the flint.
3. Be sure to dig-into the flint with force.
4. Both sides of blade can be used on flint and magnesium.
5. Remember, the more pressure you apply, the more sparks you will produce.
